ANAHEIM, Calif. – The American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine (ACVIM) will host the second annual ACVIM Career Expo at the 2010 ACVIM Forum in Anaheim, Calif., June 9 - 12.

"The economy is starting to rebound and we are excited we can help our attendees connect with companies that are hiring," said Marcie Rhysling, MA, ACVIM's Director of Operations, Marketing & Strategic Management. "The ACVIM Career Expo offers special features - to those looking for employment and to companies looking to hire - all in one place."

Some of those features include free job ads and a networking experience. The ACVIM Career Expo will be strategically located in the 2010 ACVIM Forum Exhibit Hall for maximum exposure.

There will be plenty of opportunities for all attendees, including veterinary specialists, general practitioners, and veterinary technicians, as well as hospital managers and new veterinary school graduates, to find a job offering both personal and professional growth.
